Compare and contrast the two types of respiration.

Your answer should:

- Describe both types of respiration.
- Discuss the similarities and differences between the two types of respiration.
- State the amount of energy produced by each type of respiration.

The answer:

_____ respiration uses oxygen to release lots of _____ / ATP Compared to _____ respiration, which does not use _____ and releases only a _____ amount of energy.

Both aerobic and anaerobic respiration release _____ for the mammal to use to carry out its _____ processes such as _____ and _____, from the _____ they eat. Both types of cellular respiration occur inside the _____ and require the raw material _____, which they get from eating and _____ food.

These two processes are different however, as aerobic respiration requires _____ as a raw material to produce the _____ amount of energy (_____) possible from one glucose molecule. In comparison, _____ respiration is where oxygen is _____ required or used to break down the glucose to _____ energy for the animal. However in contrast to _____ respiration, only a _____ amount of energy is produced during anaerobic cellular respiration from one _____ molecule.
