The United Nations and Human Rights Frédéric Mégret,Philip Alston,2020-04-02 The very concept of human rights implies governmental accountability To ensure that governments are indeed held accountable for their treatment of citizens and others the United Nations has established a wide range of mechanisms to monitor compliance and to seek to prevent as well as respond to violations The panoply of implementation measures that the UN has taken since 1945 has resulted in a diverse and complex set of institutional arrangements the effectiveness of which varies widely Indeed there is much doubt as to the effectiveness of much of the UN s human rights efforts but also about what direction it should take Inevitable instances of politicization and the hostile or at best ambivalent attitude of most governments has at times endangered the fragile progress made on the more technical fronts At the same time technical efforts cannot dispense with the complex politics of actualizing the promise of human rights at and through the UN In addition to significant actual and potential problems of duplication overlapping and inconsistent approaches there are major problems of under funding and insufficient expertise The complexity of these arrangements and the difficulty in evaluating their impact makes a comprehensive guide of the type provided here all the more indispensable These essays critically examine the functions procedures and performance of each of the major UN organs dealing with human rights including the Security Council and the International Court of Justice as well as the more specialized bodies monitoring the implementation of human rights treaties Significant attention is devoted to the considerable efforts at reforming the UN s human rights machinery as illustrated most notably by the creation of the Human Rights Council to replace the Commission on Human Rights The book also looks at the relationship between the various bodies and the potential for major reforms and restructuring Report on the Mortality and Vital Statistics of the United States as Returned at the Tenth Census (June 1, 1880) John Shaw Billings, United States.
