Forster E M Forster in full Edward Morgan Forster born January 1 1879 London England died June 7 1970 Coventry Warwickshire British novelist essayist and social and literary critic His fame rests largely on his novels Howards End 1910 and A Passage to India 1924 and on a large body of criticism Forster's father an architect died when the son was a baby and he was brought up by his mother and paternal aunts The difference between the two families his father's being strongly evangelical with a high sense of moral responsibility his mother's more feckless and generous minded gave him an enduring insight into the nature of domestic tensions while his education as a dayboy day student at Tonbridge School Kent was responsible for many of his later criticisms of the English public school private system At King's College Cambridge he enjoyed a sense of liberation For the first time he was free to follow his own intellectual inclinations and he gained a sense of the uniqueness of the individual of the healthiness of moderate skepticism and of the importance of Mediterranean civilization as a counterbalance to the more straitlaced attitudes of northern European countries On leaving Cambridge Forster decided to devote his life to writing His first novels and short stories were redolent of an age that was shaking off the shackles of Victorianism While adopting certain themes the importance of women in their own right for example from earlier English novelists such as George Meredith he broke with the elaborations and intricacies favoured in the late 19th century and wrote in a freer more colloquial style From the first his novels included a strong strain of social comment based on acute observation of middle class life There was also a deeper concern however a belief associated with Forster's interest in Mediterranean paganism that if men and women were to achieve a satisfactory life they needed to keep contact with the earth and to cultivate their imaginations In an early novel The Longest Journey 1907 he suggested that cultivation of either in isolation is not enough reliance on the earth alone leading to a genial brutishness and exaggerated development of imagination undermining the individual's sense of reality
