The Columbia Companion to American History on Film Peter C. Rollins,2004-03-24 American history has always been an irresistible source of inspiration for filmmakers and today for good or ill most Americans sense of the past likely comes more from Hollywood than from the works of historians In important films such as The Birth of a Nation 1915 Roots 1977 Apocalypse Now 1979 and Saving Private Ryan 1998 how much is entertainment and how much is rooted in historical fact In The Columbia Companion to American History on Film more than seventy scholars consider the gap between history and Hollywood They examine how filmmakers have presented and interpreted the most important events topics eras and figures in the American past often comparing the film versions of events with the interpretations of the best historians who have explored the topic Divided into eight broad categories Eras Wars and Other Major Events Notable People Groups Institutions and Movements Places Themes and Topics and Myths and Heroes the volume features extensive cross references a filmography of discussed and relevant films notes and a bibliography of selected historical works on each subject The Columbia Companion to American History on Film is also an important resource for teachers with extensive information for research or for course development appropriate for both high school and college students Though each essay reflects the unique body of film and print works covering the subject at hand every essay addresses several fundamental questions What are the key films on this topic What sources did the filmmaker use and how did the film deviate or remain true to its sources How have film interpretations of a particular historical topic changed and what sorts of factors technological social political historiographical have affected their evolution Have filmmakers altered the historical record with a view to enhancing drama or to enhance the truth of their putative message The History of American Literature on Film Thomas Leitch, 2019-06-13 From William Dickson's Rip Van Winkle films 1896 to Baz Luhrmann's big budget production of The Great Gatsby 2013 and beyond cinematic adaptations of American literature participate in a rich and fascinating history Unlike previous studies of American literature and film which emphasize particular authors like Edith Wharton and Nathaniel Hawthorne particular texts like Moby Dick particular literary periods like the American Renaissance or particular genres like the novel this volume considers the multiple functions of filmed American literature as a cinematic genre in its own right one that reflects the specific political and aesthetic priorities of different national and historical cinemas even as it plays a decisive role in defining American literature for a global audience The Presence of the Past Daniel Bishop, 2021-08-06 The Presence of the Past offers a new perspective on Hollywood's New Wave as engaged with the vitality of sensory experience and the affective imagination As author Daniel Bishop shows the soundtracks of several key films of the New Hollywood Cinema of the late 1960s and 70s cultivated an array of sensibilities regarding the American past This importance of the past exceeded the New Hollywood's acknowledged use of genre revisionism as a vehicle for timely ideological commentary There was also a vital tendency in this era to locate the past as an object of imagined phenomenal presence Although this concept of the past never solidified into a self-conscious discourse it was nevertheless woven into film culture readable between the lines of criticism cultural reception New Wave aesthetics and in the aesthetic and industrial transformations of sound design and film music Bonnie and Clyde 1967 Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid 1969 McCabe and Mrs Miller 1971 The Last Picture Show 1971 American Graffiti 1973 Chinatown 1974 and Badlands 1973 are not only key texts of an exciting era in American popular cinema They are also mediations upon the presence of the past an image central to the polarities of visceral energy and ambiguous ephemerality of utopian dreams and melancholy resignation that characterized this cinema These sensibilities of pastness engage in diverse ways with myth nostalgia paranoia and existential alienation They are however also united by a concern both with the experiential actuality of the past and with the distances that inevitably separate us from this actuality

How to Read a Film James Monaco,2000 Explores the medium of film as both art and craft sensibility and science tradition and technology The Oxford History of World Cinema Geoffrey Nowell-Smith,1996 Featuring nearly three thousand film stills production shots and other illustrations an authoritative history of the cinema traces the development of the medium its filmmakers and stars and the evolution of national cinemas around the world British Popular Films 1929-1939 Stephen Shafer,2003-09-02 Challenges the conventional assumption that British feature films of the Thirties were oriented mostly towards the middle class and demonstrates that far from being alienated working class men and women flocked to the cinema Catalog of Copyright Entries.
