American Organ Monthly, 1920 American Organ Quarterly, 1920 The Architect, 1871 Victorian Visions of Suburban Utopia Nathaniel Robert Walker, 2020-11-17 The rise of suburbs and disinvestment from cities have been defining features of life in many countries over the course of the twentieth century In Victorian Visions of Suburban Utopia Nathaniel Walker asks why did we abandon our dense complex urban places and seek to find the best of the city and the country in the flowery suburbs While looking back at the architecture and urban design of the 1800s offers some answers Walker argues that a great missing piece of the story can be found in Victorian utopian literature The replacement of cities with high tech suburbs was repeatedly imagined and breathlessly described in the socialist dreams and science fiction fantasies of dozens of British and American authors Some of these visionaries such as Robert Owen Edward Bulwer Lytton Edward Bellamy William Morris Ebenezer Howard and H G Wells are enduringly famous while others were street vendors or amateur chemists who have been all but forgotten Together they fashioned strange and beautiful imaginary worlds built of synthetic gemstones lacy metal colonnades and unbreakable glass staffed by robotic servants and teeming with flying carriages As varied as their futuristic visions could be Walker reveals how most of them were unified by a single desperate plea for humanity to have a future worth living we must abandon our smoky poor chaotic Babylonian cities for a life in shimmering gardens
