

Paradise

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a dark bikini, is sitting on a large, flat rock in a natural swimming pool. She is facing away from the camera, looking out over a vast, lush tropical landscape. The pool is surrounded by large, reddish-brown rocks. In the background, there are rolling hills and mountains covered in dense green vegetation, with a clear blue sky above. The overall scene is serene and idyllic, capturing a moment of solitude in nature.

Memorable Days James Salter, Robert Phelps, 2011-07-12 A well edited collection. More than friends and less than lovers. Salter and Phelps were literary soul mates. Publishers Weekly. It was James Salter's third novel A Sport and a Pastime together with his film Three and a script he had written for Downhill Racer that in 1969 prompted Robert Phelps to write a letter of admiration. Though the two writers didn't know each other their correspondence went on to span decades. The letters themselves are exceptionally alive uninhibited gossipy touching and brilliant. The successes of Salter and the struggles of Phelps are fully explored by the writers themselves in the kind of honest exchange only letters can divulge. With an insightful foreword by Michael Dirda this book gives voice to a nearly forgotten figure and his friendship with a man he admired.

Female Sexuality Russell Grigg, 2018-04-17 Undoubtedly Contributions to the Masculinity Complex in Women is an underrated paper. This may be due to its not being published in English until 1924 well after Freud introduced the term masculinity complex into his own writings. However Van Ophuijsen's paper was originally presented to the Dutch Psycho Analytical Society much earlier on 23rd June 1917. It was published in German the same year and in Dutch the following year. The term masculinity complex is in fact van Ophugsen's invention and Freud acknowledges his debt in his 1919 paper A Child is Being Beaten. It is also in the present paper that various manifestations and possible consequences of penis envy are first clearly expressed just as the libidinal investment in the virile erogenous zone is linked to the attachment to the mother. This last point is particularly important and Freud will later appeal to it in explaining the phallicism of the little girl. The material van Ophuijsen draws on derives from five case studies of obsessional women. One of the cases who is here simply referred to as H is subsequently discussed by Jeanne Lampl de Groot in her 1928 paper Evolution of the Oedipus Complex in Women a discussion Freud alludes to in his Female Sexuality of 1931. The analysand was referred to Lampl de Groot because of difficulties encountered in the transference to a male analyst. It is also worth noting that van Ophuijsen takes her to be an obsessional while Lampl de Groot diagnoses hysteria. Van Ophuijsen's starting point concerns one aspect of the theory of penis envy, namely that it derives from the sense a woman has of having been injured in infancy through no fault of her own and hence she will blame her mother for having brought her into this world as a woman instead of a man. This matches some character types encountered in analysis, van Ophuijsen conjectures. He also points out that this turning against the mother is as with the castration complex, founded on a belief in the possibility of possessing the penis. The difference between the castration and masculinity complexes is that the sense of guilt attached to the former is absent from the masculinity complex in which, on the other hand, what predominate are the sense of having been wronged and accompanying bitterness and reproaches. Moreover, the term is intended to connote the presence of a form of rivalry with men rather than the presence of any overt masculine characteristics. Finally, one should note the connection between the masculinity complex and the urethral erotism which van Ophuijsen explains in terms of a regression to the auto-erotic stage later tackled by other analysts such as Karen Horney.
