Aashto Roadside Design Guide Light:

Roadway Lighting Design Guide American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials, 2005 This guide replaces the 1984 publication entitled An Informational Guide for Roadway Lighting It has been revised and brought up to date to reflect current practices in roadway lighting The guide provides a general overview of lighting systems from the point of view of the transportation departments and recommends minimum levels of quality The guide incorporates the illuminance and luminance design methods but does not include the small target visibility STV method Roadside Design Guide American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials. Task Force for Roadside Safety, 2011 The Roadside Design Guide presents a synthesis of current information and operating practices related to roadside safety and is written in dual units metric and U S Customary This book is a guide It is not a standard nor is it a design policy It is intended to use as a resource document from which individual highway agencies can develop standards and policies Although much of the material in the guide can be considered universal in its application several recommendations are subjective in nature and may need modification to fit local conditions However it is important that significant deviations from the guide be based on operational experience and objective analysis The 2011 edition of the AASHTO Roadside Design Guide has been updated to include hardware that has met the evaluation criteria contained in the National Cooperative Highway Research Program NCHRP Report 350 Recommended Procedures for the Safety Performance Evaluation of Highway Features and begins to detail the most current evaluation criteria contained under the Manual for Assessing Safety Hardware 2009 MASH For the most part roadside hardware tested and accepted under older guidelines that are no longer applicable has not been excluded in this edition AASHTO website Roadside Design Guide American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials.
