Creating Memory Farah Mendlesohn, 2020-09-23 This book considers the English Civil Wars and the civil wars in Scotland and Ireland through the lens of historical fiction primarily fiction for the young The text argues that the English Civil War lies at the heart of English and Irish political identities and considers how these identities have been shaped over the past three centuries in part by the children's literature that has influenced the popular memory of the English Civil War Examining nearly two hundred works of historical fiction Farah Mendlesohn reveals the delicate interplay between fiction and history

A Soldier of Substance D. W. Bradbridge, 2014-11-01 1644 The smoke of parliamentary musket cannon and mortar fire is in the air around the royalist stronghold of Lathom House Though guards still stand atop its walls it is besieged on all sides and it is only a matter of time until the house along with its embittered and unwavering countess Lady Charlotte de Tremouille falls to Parliament's might Yet somehow a royalist spy still creeps unseen through its gates and brings the countess Parliament's secrets Barely recovered from the trials of the last few months Daniel Cheswis is torn from his family and sent north to uncover the identity of the traitor though before he can even begin Cheswis finds himself embroiled in a murder A woman has been garrotted with cheese wire in her Chester home suggesting there is more than just the usual hatreds of war at play As lives are lost and coats are turned on both sides Cheswis is tasked with finding the murderer uncovering the traitor and surviving his soldierly duty long enough to see Lathom House fall
