Hindsight: A GenX Life Evan D. Baltz, 2025-04-10 Ultimately this is the book's purpose How these days are different from those days I am a GenXer That means I was born between 1965 and 1980 Each generation has different characteristics and different world views than the one before and the one after This is VERY true for us GenXers We experienced the world differently as kids than the generations around us And as adults we think differently about how things should be done and what makes sense We are pragmatic probably above all We do things because it makes sense Common sense is a hallmark of the Generation X person On the negative side of that we hate nonsense We hate pretense We love individualism freedom and independence Most of our lives center around those principles We are optimistic but grumpy We love tech but also hate it when it serves no purpose We like the outdoors but we don't hug trees We have thick skin and aren't easily offended And we think people who are always offended are weak or stupid or both We use words that some have labeled offensive and that kind of ticks us off They are just words for crying out loud It's a journey through this generation and my perception of that through some of my experiences Notice I said some A book about my entire life would probably get boring There would be a lot of sitting around and watching TV and staring at my lawn But there are moments in your life that stick out I can't always explain why they stick out they just do And in hindsight they had meaning They represented something The definition of hindsight is Perception of the significance and nature of events after they have occurred That seems right Life moves at different speeds When you are young a day seems to last forever As a teen a week is the measure of time As a young adult you think in terms of years As a middle aged parent it's the decades Each season has different milestones and measurements Moments are recalled with different levels of detail Strangely enough the older memories have more detail and the newer ones are more generalized If you like it you like it If you don't I don't really care That's my completely transparent no nonsense GenX attitude Can you handle that We'll see Meyer Distributing 2008 , Federal Register ,1995-03-10
