Anthropologies Of Cancer In Transnational Worlds Routledge Studies In Anthropology:

Anthropologies of Cancer in Transnational Worlds Holly F. Mathews, Nancy J. Burke, Eirini Kampriani, 2015-06-26

Cancer is a transnational condition involving the unprecedented flow of health information technologies and people across national borders. Such movement raises questions about the nature of therapeutic citizenship: how and where structurally vulnerable populations obtain care and the political geography of blame associated with this disease. This volume brings together cutting edge anthropological research carried out across North and South America, Europe, Africa, and Asia, representing low, middle, and high resource countries with a diversity of national health care systems. Contributors ethnographically map the varied nature of cancer experiences and articulate the multiplicity of meanings that survivorship, risk, charity, and care entail. They explore institutional frameworks shaping local responses to cancer and underlying political forces and structural variables. Chapter 3 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 3.0 license: https://s3.us-west-2.amazonaws.com/tandfbis-rt-files/docs/Open+Access+Chapters/9781138776937_oachapter3.pdf

that frame individual experiences Of particular concern is the need to interrogate underlying assumptions of research designs that may lead to the naturalizing of hidden agendas or intentions Running throughout the chapters moreover are considerations of moral and ethical issues related to cancer treatment and research Thematic emphases include the importance of local biologies in the framing of cancer diagnosis and treatment protocols uncertainty and ambiguity in definitions of biosociality shifting definitions of patienthood and the sociality of care and support

The Cancer Within Cristina A. Pop, 2022-05-13 The Cancer Within examines cervical cancer in Romania as a point of entry into an anthropological reflection on contemporary health care Cervical cancer prevention reveals the inner workings of emerging post communist medicine which aligns the state and the market public and private health care providers policy makers and ordinary women Fashioned by patriarchal relations lived religion and the historical trauma of pronatalism Romanian women s responses to reproductive medicine and cervical cancer prevention are complicated by neoliberal reforms to medical care Cervical cancer prevention and especially the HPV vaccination provided Romanians a legitimate instance to express their conflicting views of post communist medicine What sets Romania apart is that pronatalism patriarchy lived religion medical reforms and moral contestation of preventive medicine bring into line systemic contingencies that expose the historical social and cultural trajectories of cervical cancer

Assemblages of cancer Cinzia Greco, 2025-03-11 Assemblages of cancer illustrates the tensions in the experiences and context of breast cancer in Western Europe Breast cancer is presented as a success story in oncology especially in countries with advanced universal healthcare systems At the same time individual experiences are shaped by uncertainty local variability of healthcare provisions and the need for patients to assemble information about the treatments knowledge on healthcare systems navigation and different processes of meaning making to manage the uncertainty and variability characterising individual outcomes The book explores both how individual bodies and experiences are transformed by different local medical practices institutions and discourses of breast cancer and how patients need to find their own way in these contexts Assemblages of Cancer is based on ten years of ethnographic work with patients and medical professionals in the UK France and Italy

Cancer Entangled Rikke Sand Andersen, Marie Louise Tørring, 2023-04-14 Cancer Entangled explores the shifts that took place in Denmark around the millennium when health promoters set out to minimize delays in cancer diagnoses in hope of improving cancer survival The authors suggest a temporal reframing of cancer control that emphasizes the importance of focusing on how people potential patients as well as health care professionals experience and anticipate cancer before a diagnosis or a prediction has been made This argument compellingly challenges and augments anthropological work on cancer control that has privileged attention to the productive role of science and technology and to life with cancer or cancer risk By offering rich ethnographic insights into the introduction of the first cancer vaccine cancer signs and symptoms public discourses on delays social class and care seeking cancer suspicion in the clinic as well as the work on fast track referral the book convincingly situates cancer control in an ethical registrar involving attention to acceleration and time showing how cancer waiting times become an index of the state of the nation

The Work of Hospitals William C. Olsen, Carolyn Sargent, 2022-03-18 The Work of Hospitals a volume on hospitals as clinical and social institutions foregrounds the tensions inherent in efforts to sustain functional health services in resource poor states Global ethnographic research shows how clinicians and patients struggle without adequate supplies and personnel in times of financial austerity The chapters document a vast gulf worldwide between the idealized mission of the hospital and the implementation of this mission in everyday practice

Hard Luck and Heavy Rain Joseph C. Russo, 2022-11-25 In Hard Luck and Heavy Rain Joseph C Russo takes readers into the everyday lives of the rural residents of Southeast Texas He encounters the region as a kind of world enveloped in on itself existing under a pall of poverty illness and oil refinery smoke His informants stories cover a wide swath of experiences from histories of LGBTQ life and the local petrochemical industries to religiosity among health food store employees and the suffering of cancer patients living in the Refinery Belt Russo frames their hard luck stories as forms of verbal art and poetic narrative that render the region a mythopoetic landscape that epitomizes the impasse of American late capitalism He shows that in this severe world questions of politics and history are not cut and dry and its denizens are not simply backward victims of circumstances Russo demonstrates that by challenging classist stereotypes of rural Americans as passive ignorant and uneducated his interlocutors offer significant insight into the contemporary United States

Introducing Medical Anthropology Merrill Singer, Hans Baer, Debbi Long, Alex Pavlotski, 2019-03-20 The third edition of Introducing Medical Anthropology A Discipline in Action provides students with a first exposure to the growing field of medical and health anthropology The narrative is guided by unifying themes First health oriented anthropologists are very involved in the process of helping to varying degrees to change the world around them through their work in applied projects policy initiatives and advocacy Second the authors present the fundamental importance of culture and social relationships in health and illness by demonstrating that illness and disease involve complex biosocial processes and that resolving them requires attention to a range of factors beyond biology Third through an examination of the issue of health inequality this book underlines the need for an analysis that moves beyond cultural or even ecological models of health toward a comprehensive biosocial approach Such an approach integrates biological cultural and social factors in building unified theoretical understandings of the origin of ill health while contributing to the building of effective and equitable national health care systems NEW TO THIS EDITION All chapters have been updated or expanded NEW Chapter 8 The Biopolitics of Life Biotechnology Biocapital and Bioethics Revised text style for crisper language and livelier phrasing Added a brief signposting of chapter content at the beginning of each chapter and review questions about the key issues and concepts at the end of each chapter Expanded discussion of Zika Ebola gender and health PTSD and psychological anthropology geriatric health the contemporary vaccine controversy the internet and health and the health impacts of fracking and nuclear energy development Concluding chapter examines anthropologically informed strategies and visions for a healthier world

Ethical Challenges in Cancer Diagnosis and Therapy Axel W. Bauer, Ralf-Dieter Hofheinz, Jochen S. Utikal, 2021-05-21 This book presents in detail the problems and ethical challenges in daily oncological practice In western industrialized countries roughly 25 percent of all citizens still die from cancer Despite significant progress in basic science and in individual areas of clinical care even in the 21st century being diagnosed with cancer has lost none of its dread and can still be a death sentence This situation raises many problems and challenges for medical ethics e g the question of the benefits and risks of prevention programs or the right to know and not to know Clinical trials with cancer patients and quality assurance for surgery radiotherapy and medication also pose a series of ethical dilemmas Furthermore cancer treatment is a psychological challenge not only for patients but also for physicians and caregivers The issues of adequate pain management and good palliative care of treatment limiting and the question of assisted suicide at the end of life also have to be considered In order to reflect the subject's diverse and multifaceted nature the book incorporates legal ethnographic historical and literary perspectives into ethical considerations

Negotiating Structural Vulnerability in Cancer Control Julie Armin, Nancy J. Burke, Eichelberger Laura, 2019-03-01 What can case studies about the lived experiences of cancer contribute to an interest in the concept of structural vulnerability And can a consideration of structural vulnerability enhance applied anthropological work in cancer prevention and control To answer these questions the contributors in this volume explore what it means to be structurally vulnerable how structural vulnerabilities intersect with cancer risk diagnosis care seeking caregiving clinical trial participation and survivorship and how differing local national and global political contexts and histories inform vulnerability These case studies illustrate how quotidian experiences of structural vulnerability influence and are altered by a cancer diagnosis at various points in the continuum of care In examining cancer as a set of diseases and biosocial phenomena the contributors extend structural vulnerability beyond its original conceptualization to encompass spatiality temporality and biosocial shifts in both individual and institutional arrangements

Cancer and the Politics of Care Linda Rae Bennett, Lenore Manderson, Belinda Spagnoletti, 2023-02-13 This timely volume responds to the epic impacts of cancer as a global phenomenon Through the fine grained lens of ethnography the contributors present new thinking on how social economic race gender and other structural inequalities intersect compound and complicate health inequalities Cancer experiences and impacts are explored across eleven countries Argentina Brazil Denmark France Greece India Indonesia Italy Senegal the United Kingdom and the United States The volume engages with specific cancers from the point of primary prevention to screening diagnosis treatment or its absence and end of life care Cancer and the Politics of Care traverses new theoretical terrain through explicitly critiquing cancer interventions their limitations and success the politics that drive them and their embeddedness in local cultures and value systems It extends prior work on cancer by incorporating the perspectives of patients and their families at risk groups and communities health professionals cancer advocates and educators and patient navigators The volume advances cross cultural understandings of care resisting simple dichotomies between caregiving and receiving and reveals the fraught ethics of care that must be negotiated in resource poor settings and stratified health systems Its diversity and innovation ensures its wide utility among those working in and studying medical anthropology social anthropology and other fields at the intersections of social science medicine and health equity

The Politics of Knowledge in the Biomedical Sciences

Jonathan Jansen, Jess Auerbach, 2023-11-06 In the wake of the decolonization movement in South Africa and around the world this edited work presents fresh evidence and advances new arguments on the politics and economics of colonial biomedical knowledge in South Africa and other parts of the African continent Covering a richly diverse set of fields including human genetics obstetrics occupational therapy medical photography and the vaccine sciences the book demonstrates the troubled histories and the enduring effects of imperial knowledge decades since the end of colonial rule and apartheid This is a valuable text on the politics of the biomedical sciences written from the perspective of the African continent and at the same time it revisits knowledge power relationships between the majority global South and minority global north words in a historical perspective and in their contemporary expression in the disciplines The immediate benefit is a reference resource for medical science researchers and a teaching text for senior undergraduate and postgraduate students The book is further composed as an accessible readable and interesting text on politics and medicine in Africa for the discerning lay reader

Cancer Intersections Camilo Sanz, 2024 A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press s Open Access publishing program Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more Cancer Intersections is an ethnographic analysis of the complex and paradoxical efforts to access neoliberal market based oncological treatments in Colombia a country where all patients are legally guaranteed access to medical services including high cost ones Drawing on years of fieldwork in the city of Cali Camilo Sanz explores the deep entanglements between medical legal and policy practices that share a common goal of treating and curing cancer but are hindered by bureaucratic procedures pernicious financial interests and class politics Cancer Intersections shows how the interplay of these hurdles dictates the rhythm at which patients access treatment and how even in resource rich settings patients suffer because of market imperatives that shape how cancer treatments unfold Through careful and measured observation Sanz unveils how a neoliberal universal health care regime delays access to care for those reliant on public assistance which means that some patients will start expensive treatments only after it is unlikely to change the course of the disease

Immobility and Medicine

Cecilia Vindrola-Padros, Bruno Vindrola-Padros, Kyle Lee-Crossett, 2020-10-02 Recent work in the mobilities literature has highlighted the importance of thinking about mobility and immobility as a continuum where movement intersects with processes that might entail episodes of transition waiting emptiness and fixity This focus on stillness things that are stuck incomplete or in a state of transition can point to new theoretical methodological and practical dimensions in social studies of medicine This edited volume brings the concept of immobility to the forefront of social studies of medicine to explore how immobility shapes processes of medical care and the theoretical and methodological challenges of studying immobility in medical contexts The authors in this volume draw from a wide range of case studies across the globe to make contributions to our current understanding of health illness and medicine mobilities and immobilities Chapter 2 Lists in Flux Lives on Hold Technologies of Waiting in Liver Transplant Medicine is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link springer.com
