shoppers in Accra Ghana Freshness is the main attribute demanded by the overwhelming majority of shoppers followed by food safety price taste and size Consumers are willing to pay price premiums for food safety certifications i e those certified according to Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point HACCP principles or certified as free of antibiotic residue However the price premium shoppers are willing to pay for improved food safety vary by shoppers type A third of tilapia shoppers and half of chicken meat shoppers are classified as food safety conscious shoppers and willing to pay a 10 to 12 percent higher price than noncertified products In comparison only a tenth of shoppers are considered to be price conscious and willing to pay a small premium 1 percent for certified safe foods We also tested an information treatment on the negative health implications of food contamination and its effect on shoppers decisions The information treatment randomly assigned to shoppers was a significant predictor of food safety attribute demand for chicken meat but not for tilapia which may be linked to greater awareness of and concern about antibiotic misuse in poultry production Our findings generally point to a concern about food safety and a strong demand and willingness among consumers to pay premiums for certified safe foods thus providing support for public or industry led schemes to provide food safety information to consumers

The situation in Ghana is no different. In 2016 it was projected that given the country's growing youth population 300 000 new jobs would need to be created each year to absorb the increasing numbers of unemployed young people. Yet the employment structure of the Ghanaian economy has not changed much from several decades ago. Most jobs are low skill requiring limited cognitive or technology know how reflected in low earnings and work of lower quality. An additional challenge for Ghana is the need to create access to an adequate number of high quality productive jobs. This report seeks to increase knowledge about Ghana's job landscape and youth employment programs to assist policy makers and key stakeholders in identifying ways to improve the effectiveness of these programs and strengthen coordination among major stakeholders. Focused strategic short to medium term and long term responses are required to address current unemployment and underemployment challenges. Effective coordination and synergies among youth employment programs are needed to avoid duplication of effort while the country's economic structure transforms. Effective private sector participation in skills development and employment programs is recommended. The report posits interventions in five priority areas that are not new but could potentially make an impact through scaling up: 1 agriculture and agribusiness 2 apprenticeship skills training 3 entrepreneurship 4 high yielding areas renewable energy solar construction tourism sports and green jobs and 5 preemployment support services. Finally with the fast changing nature of work due to technology and artificial intelligence Ghana needs to develop an education and training system that is versatile and helps young people to adapt and thrive in the twenty first century world of work. Ghana International Monetary Fund. It was prepared with broad based stakeholder participation including the use of cross sectoral planning groups CSPGs as enjoined by article 15 of the National Development Planning Commission Act 1994 Act 479. Public consultations were also undertaken across the country including engagement with parliament and the presidency. It was finally approved by the Commission following approval from the presidency and presented to Parliament.
