

Chapter 52: Intro to Ecology and the Biosphere

Ecology => study of interactions between organisms and environment
=> determine the distribution and abundance of organisms

Ecology

Ecology and evolutionary biology are closely related sciences. Events that occur over ecological time (minutes to years) translate into effects over evolutionary time (decades to millennia).

ex. hawks eat field mice reducing population size (ecological effect), altering the gene pool (evolutionary effect) => selecting for mice with fur color that camouflages

The environment of any organism includes the following components:

- ♦ abiotic => nonliving chemical/physical factors
ex. temperature, light, water, and minerals
- ♦ biotic => all living organisms in the individual's environment (could also include recently living or came from a living thing)

Ecology can be divided into a number of areas of study:

- ♦ organismal ecology => individual + environment
- ♦ population => group of individuals of the same species living in a particular geographic area
- ♦ community => all organisms of all the species that inhabit a particular area
