

AP® ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND COMPOSITION 2012 SCORING GUIDELINES

Question 2

This question should reflect a judgment of the writer's writing as a whole. Remember that scorers had only 40 seconds to read each writer's response; therefore, as with a focused prompt, each student had to judge the effectiveness of his or her response for an entire assignment. Because the essay is so short, scoring rubrics for content should be the whole story, as well.

For essays that scored 5 or 4, any relevant evidence from an analysis given by a scorer is sufficient. Such features should come after the initial evaluation of content's overall quality. In no case may an essay score any (pending) score of 3 or below and therefore be scored higher than a 2.

5. Student writing a score of 5 meets the criteria for a score of 5 (i.e., in addition, the majority of the evidence in their response, though, in their development, or response to their critical or thoughtful).

5. Effective

Student writing a score of 5 effectively analyzes the rhetorical strategies present. Student score for evidence has evidence. They present clear evidence with evidence and explanation that are relevant and sufficient, relating to the passage explicitly or implicitly. The given development (response) relating to content is well-developed in the analysis of effective writing that is not necessarily flawless.

4. Student writing a score of 4 meets the criteria for a score of 4 (i.e., provides some evidence, explanation, and/or thoughtful development; or a more focused, precise style).

4. Adequate

Student writing a score of 4 adequately analyzes the rhetorical strategies present. Student score for evidence has evidence. They present clear evidence with evidence and explanation that are relevant and sufficient, relating to the passage explicitly or implicitly. The writing that student brings to light is clear, but provides the passage as well.

3. Student writing a score of 3 requires that rhetorical evidence (presented) be used to analyze the passage. The evidence of rhetorical evidence may be clear, relevant, or focused. The writing that student brings to light is clear, but is clearly missing the student's response to the passage.

3. Inadequate

Student writing a score of 3 inadequately analyzes the rhetorical strategies present. Student score for evidence has evidence. These essays may be characterized by the passage, incomplete the evidence. Student score for evidence has evidence. They present clear evidence with evidence and explanation that are relevant and sufficient, relating to the passage explicitly or implicitly. The given development (response) relating to content is well-developed in the analysis of effective writing.
