NWEA FAQ Northwest Evaluation Association, 2015 Northwest Evaluation Association NWEA conducts norming studies every several years to provide the best and most up to date information we can about student achievement and growth to better support educational decision making It is an important part of our commitment to our partners The most recent NWEA norms were released in July 2015 Just as we expect student performance to change with time norms of student performance will change correspondingly For 2015 several factors may have influenced how the US school age population performed on Measures of Academic Progress MAP assessments of language usage mathematics and reading over the 2011 12 2012 13 and 2013 14 school years Prominent among these possible factors are the introduction of Common Core instruction and Common Core versions of MAP But as with all empirical studies changes in scope and data necessitated changes in statistical design and analyses The methodological improvements introduced in the 2015 norms have resulted in a set of norms that are more representative of the US school age population than previous NWEA norms Methodological changes involved differences in the way post stratification weights were developed and the way growth was modeled Details of these changes are addressed more thoroughly in the 2015 Norms Study As a result of the improved methodology partners can expect some differences from previous norms as explained below

A Study of the Ongoing Alignment of the NWEA RIT Scale with the Arizona Instrument to Measure Standards (AIMS) John Cronin, Branin Bowe, 2005 Each spring Arizona students participate in testing as part of the state's assessment program Elementary and middle school students in grades 3 through 8 take the Arizona Instrument to Measure Standards Dual Purpose Assessment AIMS DPA in reading writing and mathematics These tests serve as an important measure of student achievement for the state's accountability system Results from these assessments are used to make state level decisions concerning education to meet Adequate Yearly Progress AYP reporting requirements of the No Child Left Behind Act NCLB calculate status and improvement indicators for AZ LEARNS the state accountability system and to inform schools and school districts of their performance The Arizona Department of Education has developed scales that are used to assign students to one of four performance levels on these tests Many students who attend school in Arizona also take tests developed in cooperation with the Northwest Evaluation Association NWEA The content of these tests are aligned with the Arizona standards and they report student performance on a single cross grade scale which NWEA calls the RIT scale This study investigated the relationship between the scales used for the AIMS assessments and the RIT scales used to report performance on Northwest Evaluation Association tests The study estimated the changes in reading and mathematics RIT score equivalents for the AIMS performance levels in those subjects Test records for more than 20 000 students were included in this study The information gathered in this study came from measures employing the NWEA RIT Scale Because all of the research that we have to date indicates that scores generated from computer based tests and Achievement Level Test ALT scores are virtually interchangeable readers should feel comfortable applying the results of this study in any setting that uses the RIT scale Contains 14 tables and 6 figures

Aligning the NWEA RIT Scale with the California Standards Test (CST) John Cronin, 2004 Many students who attend school in California also take paper or computerized adaptive tests developed in cooperation with the Northwest Evaluation Association NWEA These tests report student performance on a single cross grade scale which NWEA calls the RIT scale This scale was developed using Rasch scaling methodologies RIT based tests are used to inform a variety of educational decisions at the district school and classroom level They are also used to monitor academic growth of students and cohorts Districts choose whether to include these assessments in their local assessment programs They are not state mandated The versions of NWEA tests in use in California have been specifically aligned to match the content of local and California state curriculum standards Because of this it is believed there is a good match in content between the NWEA tests and the curriculum standards being used in California In order to use the two testing systems to support each other an alignment of the scores from the state and RIT based tests is as important as the curriculum alignment The current study is an expansion of a preliminary study of alignment of the California Standards Tests CST that was performed using data from one California school system in June 2003 It is one of an ongoing series of studies that are being conducted to identify the relationships between NWEA tests and state mandated assessments Studies of assessments in sixteen states have now been completed The primary questions addressed in this study are 1 To what extent do the same subject scores for the NWEA test correlate to the content similar subjects on the CST 2 What fall and spring RIT scores correspond to various performance levels on the CST tests and 3 How well can proficient performance on the California assessments be predicted from fall and spring RIT scores Contains 24 tables and 9 figures

Common Standards for K-12 Education? National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Education, Committee on State Standards in Education: A Workshop Series, 2008-08-26 Standards based accountability has become a central feature of the public education system in each state and is a theme of national discussions about how achievement for all students can be improved and achievement gaps narrowed Questions remain however about the implementation of standards and accountability systems and about whether their potential benefits have been fully realized Each of the 50 states has adopted its own set of standards and though there is overlap among them there is also wide variation in the ways states have devised and implemented their systems This variety may have both advantages and disadvantages but it nevertheless raises a fundamental question Is the establishment of common K 12 academic standards which states could voluntarily adopt the logical next step for standards based reform The goal of this book is not to answer the policy question of whether or not common standards would be a good idea Rather the book provides an objective look at the available evidence regarding the ways in which standards are currently functioning the strategies that might be used to pursue common standards and the issues that doing so might present

Aligning the NWEA RIT Scale with the Nevada Criterion Referenced Assessment and the Iowa Test of Basic Skills John Cronin, Branin Bowe, 2004 Each year Nevada students in grades 3 4 5 and 7 participate in testing as part of the Nevada assessment program Students in grades 3 and 5 take the Nevada Criterion Referenced Assessment Nevada CRT while students in grades 4 and 7 take the Iowa Test of Basic Skills ITBS These tests serve as an important measure of student achievement for the state s accountability system Results from these assessments are used to make state level decisions concerning education to meet Adequate Yearly Progress AYP reporting requirements of the No Child Left Behind Act NCLB and to inform schools and school districts of their performance The Nevada Department of Education has developed scales that are used to assign students to one of four performance levels on the Nevada CRT These are from the lowest cut score to the highest developing approaches meets and exceeds For purposes of NCLB the meets level is considered the level that represents satisfactory performance Students taking the Iowa Test of Basic Skills are also assigned to one of four levels These levels simply reflect the four quartiles reported in the ITBS norms Many students who attend school in Nevada also take tests developed in cooperation with the Northwest Evaluation Association NWEA These tests report student performance on a single cross grade scale which NWEA calls the RIT scale This study investigated the relationship between the scales used for the Nevada state assessments and the RIT scales used to report performance on NWEA tests The study determined RIT score equivalents for Nevada CRT and ITBS performance levels in reading and mathematics Nevada CRT test records for more than 2 000 students were included in this study Three methods generated an estimate of RIT cut scores that could be used to project Nevada CRT performance levels Rasch SOS methods generally produced the most accurate cut score estimates Accuracy of predicting Nevada CRT passing performance was above 84% for all grades when using the best methodology Type I errors ranged from about 8% to 14% when the best methodology was employed Contains 16 tables and figures

A Study of the Ongoing Alignment of the NWEA RIT Scale with Assessments from the Montana Comprehensive Assessment System (MontCAS) John Cronin,2005 Each year Montana students participate in testing as part of the state s assessment program This past spring students in grades 4 8 and 10 took Montana Comprehensive Assessment System MontCAS tests in reading and mathematics These tests serve as an important measure of student achievement for the state s accountability system Results from these assessments are used to make state level decisions concerning education to meet Adequate Yearly Progress AYP reporting requirements of the No Child Left Behind Act NCLB and to inform schools and school districts of their performance The Montana Office of Public Instruction has developed scales that are used to assign students to one of four performance levels on these tests Many students who attend school in Montana also take tests developed in cooperation with the Northwest Evaluation Association NWEA The content of these tests are aligned with the Montana standards and they report student performance on a single cross grade scale which NWEA calls the RIT scale This study investigated the relationship between the scales used for the MontCAS assessments and the RIT scales used to report performance on NWEA tests The study estimated the changes in reading and mathematics RIT score equivalents for the MontCAS performance levels in those subjects Test records for more than 4 000 students were included in this study Three methods generated an estimate of RIT cut scores that could be used to project MontCAS performance levels Rasch SOS methods generally produced the most accurate cut score estimates Accuracy of predicting MontCAS passing performance was well above 80% for all grades and subjects studied when using the best methodology Contains 14 tables and 5 figures
