

Paper Example. Understanding Target Markets Essay

Marketing is the business campaign of identifying, foreseeing, and satisfying customer needs through communication, and delivering services that include value for customers (McDaniel & Gates, 2013). A marketing plan is a detailed document that draws the marketing and advertising efforts for a given period. The plan explains the activities that will be included in achieving specific marketing goals within the given time frame. Burns et al. (2014), the Target market refers to a particular group that a marketer or a company is after for consumption of their products. This paper seeks to look at the research section of the marketing plan, the target market section, and insights from the inspection and analysis of the demographics and psychographics.

The Research Section of the Marketing Plan

Primary Research

This is the initial stage of research work whereby a market can conduct it by themselves or even hire people to research on their behalf (Westwood, 2013). This kind of research requires a person to go directly to the target sources and interview them as he records information gotten. Various ways can be used in conducting this primary research. It includes using a telephone to talk to them, visiting target consumers and talking to them one on one or via interviews sessions/questionnaires.

Consumer Analysis

This is where information or details about target consumers for your products are obtained by conducting market research to understand the consumer's needs so that a marketer can understand what their target consumer behaviors are. Westwood (2013), Consumer analysis involves researching the target consumers' profile, the benefits to be gained by the customer, and the market. The steps involved include knowing the industry, demographics, the project in question, consumer buying behaviors, and the competition.

Environmental Scanning

This refers to evaluating your target environment where your business is or will be to understand the external factors that are likely to affect a business. A researcher gathers information about activities or events to understand the relationship they could have on an organization. According to Westwood (2013), scanning of the environment is essential as it helps in guiding the direction a business or an organization will take in the future. Various techniques can be used in the scanning process, including SWOT Analysis, Pestel, surveys, and interviews.

Target Market Section

A target market in a research plan refers to a specific group of people that a company aims for its products or services. Aghdaie et al. (2015) target market involve demographic and Psychographic

Background Papers on The IMF and the Crises in Greece, Ireland, and Portugal Moisés J. Schwartz, Shinji Takagi, 2017-06-30 This volume book brings together nine background papers prepared for an evaluation by the IMF Independent Evaluation Office of the IMF and the crises in Greece Ireland and Portugal It presents an authoritative work on the evolving relationship between the IMF and the euro area a common currency area founded in 1999 consisting of advanced highly integrated economies in Europe The euro area or any common currency area for that matter has posed challenges to the IMF's operational activities as its Articles of Agreement contain no provision for joint membership The challenges became intense when a series of crises erupted in Greece Ireland and Portugal from 2009 to 2011 and the Fund was called upon to help intervene by offering its financing and crisis management expertise The IMF found itself in uncharted territory where there was no precedent or established procedure The chapters many of which are prepared by prominent academics and former senior IMF officials who are thoroughly familiar with internal procedures discuss various aspects of the IMF's engagement with the euro area including precrisis surveillance how key decisions were made how the IMF collaborated with European institutions and how it designed and implemented its lending programs with the three crisis countries The book gives prominence to governance related issues given the large voting share of more than 20 percent within the IMF of euro area members and the subsequent public perception that the IMF treated the euro area more favorably than it does developing and emerging market members The approaches are both cross cutting and country based Some chapters deal with issues related to the euro area as a whole while others focus on how the Fund engaged with individual euro area countries The book contains a statement on the IEO evaluation by the IMF Managing Director and a Summing Up of the Executive Board discussion held in July 2016
