elements. For this objective, you need to know how to work with movies and sounds and buttons, oh my!

There are three main steps to working with movies and sounds:

- 1 Use the Place command or Media panel to add movies or sounds to the layout.
- 2 Use the Media panel to adjust settings and preview the content. (Figure 9-6–Figure 9-7)
- 3 Export the InDesign document to PDF or SWF.

- You can embed movies or link to movies on the Web in the Media panel. You can also set behaviors such as when a movie should start playing, whether to loop it, and so on.
- Know the three video formats that you can place in InDesign: Flash Video format (FLV and F4V), H.264-encoded files such as MP4, and SWF.
- Know the audio formats that you can place in InDesign: Flash Video format, QuickTime (MOV), AIFF, WAV, MP3, and MP4.
- Note that QuickTime, AIFF, and MP3s are supported in PDF but not in SWF or FLA files exported from InDesign. You can use a separate application called the Adobe Media Encoder to convert these formats to PDF.
- Movies and sounds you add appear in the Links panel.
