

First Grade Report Card Comments

Comment Information

Comments should be positive, professional, and informative. They should not be a cut and paste for every child.

1. Start with a positive comment.
2. List each student's Independent Reading Level (STAR) and what the grade level expectation is at this time.
3. Write specific comments for areas of strength and opportunity for reading, writing, math, and science.
4. Give families one or two home activities that they can do to help their child improve or continue growth.

Use this template for reading and for math. Add additional comments as needed, but please be specific. Avoid phrases like "Billy NEVER does his work," or "Susan is ALWAYS talking to other students." If needed, you can make comments such as "George could have higher grades, but is frequently off task and requires re-direction from the teacher."

Try and look at the comments through the teacher lens and through a parent lens. Also try to ensure that the comments match the grades. If Melissa has an F in math and your comment states "Melissa loves math and is doing much better now." This would be a mixed message.

(If you choose to start with a positive you may do so.)

In reading, STUDENT NAME tested at a _____ diagnostic score. To be on grade level the range score should be between _____ and _____. Your child by their score is currently reading at a _____ grade level. You can help your child by reading nightly with them and asking them comprehension questions.

In math, STUDENT NAME tested at a _____ diagnostic score. To be on grade level the range score should be between _____ and _____. Your child by their score is currently doing math at a _____ grade level. You can help your child by practicing math facts on a nightly basis.
