Undergraduate Mathematics for the Life Sciences Glenn Ledder,Jenna P. Carpenter,Timothy D. Comar,2013 There is a gap between the extensive mathematics background that is beneficial to biologists and the minimal mathematics background biology students acquire in their courses The result is an undergraduate education in biology with very little quantitative content New mathematics courses must be devised with the needs of biology students in mind In this volume authors from a variety of institutions address some of the problems involved in reforming mathematics curricula for biology students The problems are sorted into three themes Models Processes and Directions It is difficult for mathematicians to generate curriculum ideas for the training of biologists so a number of the curriculum models that have been introduced at various institutions comprise the Models section Processes deals with taking that great course and making sure it is institutionalized in both the biology department as a requirement and in the mathematics department as a course that will live on even if the creator of the course is no longer on the faculty Directions looks to the future with each paper laying out a case for pedagogical developments that the authors would like to see Bioinformatics: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and

Semester 1 Microbiology As the world waits in fear world health organizations race to develop a vaccine for the looming bird flu epidemic a threat that has forced international federal and local governments to begin planning for a possible pandemic and the widespread death and devastation which would follow Will the world find an answer in time Or will we see this threat ravage populations as others have before in 1918 with influenza in the late 18th century with yellow fever or the horrific black death or bubonic plague in 1347 AD Are these viruses examples of evolution Did God make microbes by mistake Are they accidents of evolution out of the primordial soup These timely questions are examined throughout The Genesis of Germs It seems that a new and more terrible disease is touted on the news almost daily The spread of these scary diseases from bird flu to SARS to AIDS is a cause for concern and leads to questions such as Where did all these germs come from and how do they fit into a biblical world view What kind of function did these microbes have before the Fall Does antibiotic resistance in bacteria prove evolution How can something so small have such a huge deadly impact on the world around us Professor Alan Gillen sheds light on these and many other questions in this revealing and detailed book He shows how these constantly mutating diseases are proof for devolution rather than evolution and how all of these germs fit into a biblical world view Dr Gillen shows how germs are symptomatic of the literal Fall and Curse of creation as a result of man's sin and the hope we have in the coming of Jesus Christ
