

The Ford Cooling System

How is the Engine cooled?

Answer No. 35

The heat generated by the constant explosions in the engine would soon overheat and ruin the engine, were it not cooled by some artificial means. The Ford engine is cooled by the circulation of water in jackets around the cylinders. The heat is extracted from the water by its passing through the thin metal tubing of the radiator—to which are attached scientifically worked out fins, which assist in the rapid radiation of the heat. The fan, just back of the radiator, cools the air around the tubing—around which the air is also driven by the forward movement of the car. The fan belt should be inspected occasionally and tightened when necessary—not too tight, however—by means of the eccentric adjustment in the fan bracket. Take up the slack till the fan starts to bind when turned by hand.

How does the Water circulate?

Answer No. 36

The cooling apparatus of the Ford car is known as the Thermo-syphon system. It acts on the principle that hot water seeks a higher level than cold water—consequently when the water reaches a certain heat, approximately 180 degrees Fahrenheit, circulation commences and the water flows from the lower radiator outlet pipe up through the water jackets, into the upper radiator water tank, and down through the tubes to the lower tank, to repeat the process.

What are the causes of Overheating?

Answer No. 37

(1) Carbonized cylinders; (2) too much driving on low speed; (3) spark retarded too far; (4) poor ignition; (5) not enough or poor grade oil; (6) racing motor; (7) clogged muffler; (8) improper carburetor adjustment; (9) fan not working properly on account of broken or slipping belt; (10) improper circulation of water due to clogged or jammed radiator tubes, leaky connections or low water.

What should be done when the Radiator overheats?

Answer No. 38

Keep the radiator full. Don't get alarmed if it boils occasionally—especially in driving through mud and deep mud or up long hills in extremely warm weather. Remember that the engine develops the greatest efficiency when the water is heated nearly to the boiling point. But if there is persistent overheating when the motor is working under ordinary conditions—find the cause of the trouble and remedy it. The chances are that the difficulty lies in improper driving or carbonized cylinders. By reference to the proper division of this book each of the causes which contribute to an overheated radiator is treated and remedies suggested. No trouble can result from the filling of a heated radiator with cold water—providing the water system is not entirely empty—in which case the motor should be allowed to cool before the cold water is introduced.

How about cleaning the Radiator?

Answer No. 39

The entire circulating system should be thoroughly flushed out occasionally. To do this open the pet cock at the bottom of the radiator and insert a hose into the filler neck, allowing the water to flow through the system for about fifteen or twenty minutes.
