SERVICE BULLETIN

Vol. 9

January, 1928

No. 1

SERVICING THE MODEL "A"

INSTRUCTIONS covering adjustments on the new Model "A" car are contained in this issue of the Service Bulletin. Read them carefully. See that your mechanics understand them thoroughly.

Future issues of the Bulletin will contain step by step instructions for servicing every part of the car. A list of the new tools and service equipment will be given together with complete instructions covering their use. Proper fitting of pistons, rods, crankshaft, etc., will be described and each operation clearly illustrated.

In addition to repair instructions, articles showing the importance of satisfactory service will be included.

Good service is the greatest of all confidence builders—it is the foundation of repeat business. Service that expresses a real desire to provide for your customers; to see that their needs are attended to promptly and courteously; to show them you are vitally interested in keeping down their operating costs, is a present asset and an assurance for the future.

Starting today, check every part of your service department. Feature cleanliness, courtesy and good workmanship—make your service match up with the quality of your new product.
