Whispering Power

DESIGN FEATURES FOR YOUR PLEASURE and COMFORT

For many years marine research engineers have set as their goal outboard motors that are quiet, smooth, easy to operate, dependable and a pleasure to own. Your new Fastwin exemplifies the degree of quiet, smooth operation that Evinrude engineering skill has developed.

A few of the important features built into your Aquasonic Fastwin (Aquasonic is the name given to the latest Evinrude models incorporating the principles of extremely quiet operation) are illustrated and described on these pages.

SHOCK ABSORBER MOTOR MOUNTS

For the first time in the marine field, Evinrude utilizes a new principle of engine mounting similar to that used in the aircraft industry to pillow vibration. The principle makes it possible to "float" the entire powerhead of the motor, thus isolating engine vibration from the hull. The technique is based on the strategic use of resilient mountings for the powerhead and lower unit. The mountings absorb torsional and thrust vibrations at their source and prevent engine vibration from being transmitted to the boat, which would produce noise by acting as a sounding board.

Smoothness never before found in a motor of this size is the pleasant result. You will thrill to the instant power at your command, the slow trolling ability and the ease with which the motor answers your every wish. The view shown is taken from the rear of the motor showing the upper and lower Aquasonic mountings. These are the key to the new era of vibration free motor operation produced by Evinrude for your enjoyment.

PERFECTED UNDERWATER EXHAUST

Engineering research has perfected a new underwater exhaust system which eliminates back pressure from the exhaust, thereby improving the idling qualities. Exhaust noise is muffled much in the same manner as in the automobile muffler, then buried in the water.
