Welburn, Joshua Guetzkow, Nissim Mizrachi, Hanna Herzog, Elisa Reis, 2018-11-27 A comparative look at how discrimination is experienced by stigmatized groups in the United States Brazil and Israel Racism is a common occurrence for members of marginalized groups around the world Getting Respect illuminates their experiences by comparing three countries with enduring group boundaries the United States Brazil and Israel The authors delve into what kinds of stigmatizing or discriminatory incidents individuals encounter in each country how they respond to these occurrences and what they view as the best strategy whether individually collectively through confrontation or through self improvement for dealing with such events This deeply collaborative and integrated study draws on more than four hundred in depth interviews with middle and working class men and women residing in and around multiethnic cities New York City Rio de Janeiro and Tel Aviv to compare the discriminatory experiences of African Americans black Brazilians and Arab Palestinian citizens of Israel as well as Israeli Ethiopian Jews and Mizrahi Sephardic Jews Detailed analysis reveals significant differences in group behavior Arab Palestinians frequently remain silent due to resignation and cynicism while black Brazilians see more stigmatization by class than by race and African Americans confront situations with less hesitation than do Ethiopian Jews and Mizrahim who tend to downplay their exclusion The authors account for these patterns by considering the extent to which each group is actually a group the sociohistorical context of intergroup conflict and the national ideologies and other cultural repertoires that group members rely on Getting Respect is a rich and daring book that opens many new perspectives into and sets a new global agenda for the comparative analysis of race and ethnicity Between Brown and Black Antonio José Bacelar da Silva, 2022-06-17 With new momentum the Brazilian black movement is working to bring attention to and change the situation of structural racism in Brazil Black consciousness advocates are challenging Afro Brazilians to define themselves and politically organize around being black and more Afro Brazilians are increasingly doing so Other segments of the Brazilian black movement are working to influence legislation and implement formal mechanisms that aim to promote racial equality including Affirmative Action Racial Verification Committees For advocates of these committees one needs to be phenotypically black enough to be a more likely target of racism to qualify for Affirmative Action programs Paradoxically individuals are told to identify as black but only some people are considered black enough to benefit from these policies Afro Brazilians are presented with a whole range of identity choices from how to classify oneself to whether one votes for political candidates based on shared racial experiences Between Brown and Black argues that Afro Brazilian activists continued exploration of blackness confronts anti blackness while complicating understandings of what it means to be black Blending linguistic and ethnographic accounts this book raises complex questions about current black struggles in Brazil and beyond including the black movements political initiatives and antiracist agenda Post-frontier Resource Governance P. Larsen, 2016-01-12 The author presents an anthropological analysis of the regulatory technologies that characterize contemporary resource frontiers He offers an ethnographic portrayal of indigenous rights resource extraction and environmental politics in the Peruvian Amazon Popular Music in a Digital Music Economy Tim J. Anderson, 2013-12-17 In the late 1990s the MP3 became the de facto standard for digital audio files and the networked computer began to claim a significant place in the lives of more and more listeners The dovetailing of these two circumstances is the basis of a new mode of musical production and distribution where new practices emerge This book is not a definitive statement about what the new music industry is Rather it is devoted to what this new industry is becoming by examining these practices as experiments dedicated to negotiating what is replacing an object based industry oriented around the production and exchange of physical recordings In this new economy constant attention is paid to the production and licensing of intellectual property and the rise of the social musician who has been encouraged to become more entrepreneurial Finally every element of the industry now must consider a new type of audience the end user and their productive and distributive capacities around which services and musicians must orient their practices and investments The Color of Asylum Katherine Jensen, 2023-09-05 Congolese migrants wait in long lines in unbearable heat to see immigration officials while Syrians go through an expedited process And while Syrian migrants reported a relaxed and comfortable environment while meeting with immigration officials Congolese migrants were met with distrust and suspicion as they recounted the harrowing and traumatic stories of life in their home country As Jensen shows Syrians are treated so differently from other asylum seekers because the Brazilian state recognizes them as white This dates back to Brazilian immigration policy that followed the abolition of slavery Eager to whiten its population Brazil welcomed a first wave of Syrian and Lebanese immigrants a precedent that would affect the nation's policy toward Syrian refugees in the twenty first century On the other hand anti black racism shapes the experiences of Congolese and other African refugees and entrenches racial inequalities even among those deemed worthy of safe haven

Revolt of the Saints John F. Collins,2015-05-01 In 1985 the Pelourinho neighborhood in Salvador Brazil was designated as a UNESCO World Heritage Site Over the next decades over 4 000 residents who failed to meet the state's definition of proper Afro Brazilianness were expelled to make way for hotels boutiques NGOs and other attractions In Revolt of the Saints John F Collins explores the contested removal of the inhabitants of Brazil's first capital and best known site for Afro Brazilian history arguing that the neighborhood's most recent reconstruction begun in 1992 and supposedly intended to celebrate the Pelourinho's working class citizens and their culture revolves around gendered and racialized forms of making Brazil modern He situates this focus on national origins and the commodification of residents most intimate practices within a longer history of government and elite attempts to improve the citizenry's racial stock even as these efforts take new form today In this novel analysis of the overlaps of race space and history Collins thus draws on state citizen negotiations of everyday life to detail how residents respond to the attempt to market Afro Brazilian culture and reimagine the nation's foundations both illuminate and contribute to recent shifts in Brazil's racial politics
