Autonomous Control of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles

Victor Becerra, 2019-06-24 Unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs) are being increasingly used in different applications in both military and civilian domains. These applications include surveillance, reconnaissance, remote sensing, target acquisition, border patrol, infrastructure monitoring, aerial imaging, industrial inspection and emergency medical aid. Vehicles that can be considered autonomous must be able to make decisions and react to events without direct intervention by humans. Although some UAVs are able to perform increasingly complex autonomous manoeuvres, most UAVs are not fully autonomous; instead, they are mostly operated remotely by humans. To make UAVs fully autonomous, many technological and algorithmic developments are still required. For instance, UAVs will need to improve their sensing of obstacles and subsequent avoidance. This becomes particularly important as autonomous UAVs start to operate in civilian airspaces that are occupied by other aircraft. The aim of this volume is to bring together the work of leading researchers and practitioners in the field of unmanned aerial vehicles with a common interest in their autonomy. The contributions that are part of this volume present key challenges associated with the autonomous control of unmanned aerial vehicles and propose solution methodologies to address such challenges, analyse the proposed methodologies and evaluate their performance.

Applications of Power Electronics

Frede Blaabjerg, Tomislav Dragicevic, Pooya Davari, 2019-06-24 Power electronics technology is still an emerging technology and it has found its way into many applications from renewable energy generation, i.e. wind power and solar power, to electrical vehicles, EVs, biomedical devices and small appliances such as laptop chargers. In the near future, electrical energy will be provided and handled by power electronics and consumed through power electronics; this not only will intensify the role of power electronics technology in power conversion processes but also implies that power systems are undergoing a paradigm shift from centralized distribution to distributed generation. Today more than 1000 GW of renewable energy generation sources, photovoltaic (PV) and wind, have been installed, all of which are handled by power electronics technology. The main aim of this book is to highlight and address recent breakthroughs in the range of emerging applications in power electronics and in harmonic and electromagnetic interference (EMI) issues at device and system levels as discussed in robust and reliable power electronics technologies including fault prognosis and diagnosis technique stability of grid connected converters and smart control of power electronics in devices microgrids and at system levels Airborne Wind Energy Roland

Schmehl,2018-03-31 This book provides in depth coverage of the latest research and development activities concerning innovative wind energy technologies intended to replace fossil fuels on an economical basis A characteristic feature of the various conversion concepts discussed is the use of tethered flying devices to substantially reduce the material consumption per installed unit and to access wind energy at higher altitudes where the wind is more consistent The introductory chapter describes the emergence and economic dimension of airborne wind energy Focusing on Fundamentals Modeling Simulation Part I includes six contributions that describe quasi steady as well as dynamic models and simulations of airborne wind energy systems or individual components Shifting the spotlight to Control Optimization Flight State Measurement Part II combines one chapter on measurement techniques with five chapters on control of kite and ground stations and two chapters on optimization Part III on Concept Design Analysis includes three chapters that present and analyze novel harvesting concepts as well as two chapters on system component design Part IV which centers on Implemented Concepts presents five chapters on established system concepts and one chapter about a subsystem for automatic launching and landing of kites In closing Part V focuses with four chapters on Technology Deployment related to market and financing strategies as well as on regulation and the environment The book builds on the success of the first volume Airborne Wind Energy Springer 2013 and offers a self contained reference guide for researchers scientists professionals and students The respective chapters were contributed by a broad variety of authors academics practicing engineers and inventors all of whom are experts in their respective fields Power Transmission Design ,1997 ACS800 Catalogue Related Tools and Accessories ,2002
