Operation Manual for Rochester Ion Meter and Accessory Chambers William Freer Bale, 1949 This instrument is designed for the detection and measurement of a group of ionizing radiations Interchangeable ionization chambers have been constructed for the measurement of 1 beta and gamma radiations 2 surface and hand monitoring of alpha radiations 3 alpha and beta radiation of dust samples collected in precipitron tubes and 4 fast neutrons Moderate to high radiation intensities are measured by direct continuous deflection of a microammeter indicating changes in plate current of a 1LN5 tube used as an electrometer tube Low intensities of radiation are measured by allowing the charge due to the ionization current to collect on one plate of a condenser The other plate connects to the grid of the electrometer tube and to ground through a high resistance During the period of charge collection the two condenser plates are electrically shielded from one another by a grounded metal vane inserted between them On removing this vane the charge on the first plate of the condenser is communicated to the second plate and thus to the tube grid A transient meter deflection then occurs proportional to the product of ionization current and ion collection time A two pole triple throw switch allows the output meter to be connected in test 1 position to measure screen grid current in test 2 position to set tube voltages to reproducible values and in Operate position to measure changes in plate current

Feature Selection for Knowledge Discovery and Data Mining Huan Liu,Hiroshi Motoda,2012-12-06 As computer power grows and data collection technologies advance a plethora of data is generated in almost every field where computers are used The computer generated data should be analyzed by computers without the aid of computing technologies it is certain that huge amounts of data collected will not ever be examined let alone be used to our advantages Even with today s advanced computer technologies e g machine learning and data mining systems discovering knowledge from data can still be fiendishly hard due to the characteristics of the computer generated data Taking its simplest form raw data are represented in feature values The size of a dataset can be measured in two dimensions number of features  $N$  and number of instances  $P$  Both  $N$  and  $P$  can be enormously large This enormity may cause serious problems to many data mining systems Feature selection is one of the long existing methods that deal with these problems Its objective is to select a minimal subset of features according to some reasonable criteria so that the original task can be achieved equally well if not better By choosing a minimal subset of features irrelevant and redundant features are removed according to the criterion When  $N$  is reduced the data space shrinks and in a sense the data set is now a better representative of the whole data population If necessary the reduction of  $N$  can also give rise to the reduction of  $P$  by eliminating duplicates

The Logic of Partial Information Areski Nait Abdallah, 2012-12-06 One must be able to say at all times in stead of points straight lines and planes tables chairs and beer mugs David Hilbert One service mathematics has rendered the human race It has put common sense back where it belongs on the topmost shelf next to the dusty canister labelled discarded nonsense Eric T Bell This book discusses reasoning with partial information We investigate the proof theory the model theory and some applications of reasoning with partial information We have as a goal a general theory for combining in a principled way logic formulae expressing partial information and a logical tool for choosing among them for application and implementation purposes We also would like to have a model theory for reasoning with partial information that is a simple generalization of the usual Tarskian semantics for classical logic We show the need to go beyond the view of logic as a geometry of static truths and to see logic both at the proof theoretic and at the model theoretic level as a dynamics of processes We see the dynamics of logic processes bear with classical logic the same relation as the one existing between classical mechanics and Euclidean geometry
