Understanding the Molecular Mechanisms of Plant Responses to Abiotic Stress Sang Yeol Lee, Dae-Jin Yun, Jose M. Pardo, Motoaki Seki, Yan Guo, Abel Rosado, 2020-02-20 Plant responses to environmental stress are governed by complex molecular and biochemical signal transduction processes which act in coordination to determine tolerance or sensitivity at the whole plant level Upon exposure to abiotic stress plants express a sophisticated coordinated response to reprogram interconnected defense networks and metabolic pathways by alterations in the transcription translation and post translational modification of defense related genes and proteins Traditionally physiological and phenotypic responses were the major ones to be collected in plant stress biology However modern studies include the identification of key genes that influence stress tolerance and plant growth under the imposing stress and the verification of gene functions using knock out mutants or overexpression lines In addition genomics has become a necessary tool for the understanding of plant stress responses at the whole genome levels The identification of stress tolerant plant resources and the investigation of the functional role of the genetic variants is also a valuable tool in this research field Recently the advent of CRISPR Cas genome editing technology enables these variations to be introduced in crops for improved stress tolerance traits Through the understanding of the molecular mechanisms involved in plant signaling in response to abiotic stress and crop performance characters under stress conditions we hope to open new ways for the breeding of superior crops

Family Men: Fathers as Coparents in Diverse Contexts and Family Structures, volume II Sarah E. DeMartini, Martin I. Gallegos, Lauren Altenburger, Nicola Carone, 2024-12-12 Significant contextual changes over the past few decades have suggested that mother focused models of science do not accurately capture fathers involvement as caregivers and coparents Extant research such as the study from Cabrera and their team in 2018 has debunked myths that paint fathers solely as secondary caregivers hands off parents and absent fathers On the contrary recent studies have suggested that fathers exert significant direct and indirect influences on child development and partner relationship quality via coparenting how parents work with or against each other to care for their children e g the studies from Farr Kuo and their team in 2017 McHale and their team in 2019 Murphy and their team in 2017 and Schoppe Sullivan Fagan in 2020 According to McHale and their team s research in 2019 coparenting has been of interest to family systems researchers clinicians as well as intervention and preventionists due to this construct capturing whole family dynamics While much of coparenting literature has focused on gender differences in the roles and involvement of opposite sex coparents such as the research from Carone Lingardi in 2022 However we know less about coparenting in alternative family structures particularly gay father coparents as mothers are heavily emphasized in extant literature
