CELL STRUCTURE AND FUNCTIONCell Organelles and Features

Read the passage below, which covers topics from your textbook. Answer the questions that follow.

Most of the functions of a eukaryotic cell are controlled by the nucleus. The nucleus is filled with a jellylike liquid called the nucleoplasm, which holds the contents of the nucleus and is similar in function to a cell's cytoplasm. The nucleus houses and protects the cell's genetic information. The hereditary information that contains the instructions for the structure and function of the organism is coded in the organism's DNA, which is contained in the nucleus. When a cell is not dividing, the DNA exists in the form of long, thin structures called chromatin. When a cell is about to divide, the DNA condenses to form chromosomes. Chromosomes are structures in the nucleus made of DNA and protein.

The nucleus is surrounded by a double membrane called the nuclear envelope. The nuclear envelope is made up of two phospholipids bilayers. Covering the surface of the nuclear envelope are tiny, protein-lined holes, which are called nuclear pores. The nuclear pores provide passageways for materials to enter and leave the nucleus.

Read the question and write your answer in the space provided.

SKILL: Recognizing Similarities and Differences
