Report of the Ad Hoc Consultation on Global Tuna Statistics, Colombo, Sri Lanka, 6-7 December 1985

,1986-01-01 This document reports on a meeting held to discuss means of reducing discrepancies between tuna statistics held in different databases The statistical system i e methods of collection analysis and dissemination of data of the various agencies were described and papers describing these are given as appendices to this report The principal function of FAO with regard to tuna statistics was noted to be the provision of a global overview of world tuna production by species and by countries and it was agreed that in the performance of this function FAO could be much helped by close cooperation with the regional agencies In turn the agencies indicated their readiness to cooperate To further this objective the agencies proposed an informal arrangement for the exchange of data and the holding of periodic inter agency meetings to discuss problems which have arisen in the process and to further steps for the standardization of procedures for the collection of such data

Report of the Ad Hoc Consultation on the Role of Regional Fishery Agencies in Relation to High Seas Fishery Statistics Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1994 Review of the state of the world fishery resources: Inland fisheries Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-11-05 The FAO Fishery and Aquaculture Circular C942 Revision 3 C942 Rev 3 updates and expands the scope of previous revisions of the circular C942 Rev 3 is an important baseline document intended to assist in the global understanding of inland fisheries and inform dialogue on their current and future role The third revision reviews the status and trends of inland fisheries catch at global continental and subcontinental levels It places inland capture fisheries in the context of overall global fish production and calls attention to the importance of inland capture fisheries with respect to food security and nutrition and the Sustainable Development Goals It quantifies global inland fisheries resources in terms of food production nutrition employment economic contribution with respect to those countries regions or subnational areas where they are important A characterization approach to distinguish large scale and small scale fishing operations and their relative contributions is provided The review provides estimated economic values of inland fisheries as well as a valuation of potential replacement cost of these in terms of dollars other resources such as land and water feeds There is also an analysis of the extent and economic value of recreational inland fisheries The contribution to employment and the gender differences related to this are quantified The linkages between inland fisheries and biodiversity are also explored C942 Rev 3 discusses ways to measure and assess inland fisheries in particular how to establish more accurately inland fishery catches in the many situations where there are challenges to collection of catch statistics Towards Improving Global Information on Aquaculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Fisheries Department,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2005-01-01 In recent years the demand for reliable data and reporting on aquaculture has greatly increased driven not only by the need to formulate and monitor sound policies and development plans but also by the reporting requirements of international agreements and by increasing public demand for transparency and accountability This document sets out the findings of a FAO expert consultation held in January 2004 to discuss relevant issues including approval of a draft strategy and outline plan for improving information on status and trends of aquaculture Hidden harvest: The global contribution of capture fisheries Kelleher, K., Westlund, L., Hoshino, E., Mills, D., Willmann, R., de Graaf, G., Brummett, R., 2012-02-07 The important contribution of fisheries to human well being is frequently underestimated This report highlights that contribution The report focuses on small scale fisheries and developing countries because the livelihoods of 90 percent of the 120 million employed in fisheries are in the small scale fisheries and almost all of those workers 97 percent live in developing countries Many small scale fishing communities have high levels of poverty and poverty reduction is a core focus of the contributing partners to the report Global Fishery Resources of Tuna and Tuna-like Species Jacek Majkowski, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2007-01-01 Of the principal market species the status of three of the 23 stocks is unknown namely albacore in the Mediterranean Sea and skipjack in the Atlantic two stocks Tropical River Fisheries Valuation, 2008 Associations' Publications in Print, 1981 1981 in 2 v v 1 Subject index v 2 Title index Publisher title index Association name index Acronym index Key to publishers and distributors abbreviations Fisheries Subsidies, Sustainable Development and the WTO Anja von Moltke, 2014-10-14 The fisheries sector is in crisis Inappropriate subsidies to the fishing industry are a key factor responsible for worldwide fisheries depletion overcapitalization and ecosystem degradation There is an urgent need for an international mechanism to promote the appropriate restructuring of fisheries subsidies in order to create a more sustainable industry In recent years the leading international forum charged with providing such a mechanism has been the World Trade Organization WTO This book explains why and how the reform of fisheries subsidies has become one of the most concrete and potentially successful international efforts to achieve global environmental economic and developmental policy coherence It describes the history and current status of the discussions at the WTO drawing on UNEP's key documents and reflecting on the major issues Accompanying the book are downloadable resources containing full text versions of the most important source material used in the publication The book is aimed at a broad stakeholder audience including policymakers in the fields of trade fisheries environmental economics and international environmental governance as well as academics and others looking for an overview of the fisheries subsidies issue and an introduction to its technical components Published with the United Nations Environment Programme UNEP □□□□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□□□, 1989 Report of the Advisory Roundtable on the Assessment of Inland Fisheries Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-11-23 The two and a half day Advisory Roundtable was convened to contribute to FAO's response to the request by the 32nd Session of the Committee on Fisheries COFI to advise FAO on its approach to developing a more comprehensive report on methods and data and analytical approach which could be used to provide a credible objective and replicable assessment of inland fisheries and ii provide guidance on tools that could be provided to member states seeking advice with respect to assessing the status of their inland fisheries yield production threats drivers predicting future impacts and how to quantify the effect of mitigation adaptation measures on fisheries The roundtable reviewed and discussed the background that had led up to the meeting to scrutinize the purpose of an assessment and the scope of coverage and how this could be used to determine the status of inland fisheries It further developed the criteria to conduct such an assessment and then attempted to apply the approach to a number of basins This practical exercise was based on concrete examples from countries or basins with which the experts were familiar It was concluded by the roundtable that the use of a dual index approach is the right way to go and that it can be used to assess fisheries both at the national basin regional and global levels although different levels of resolution will be required and may thus have somewhat different data requirements Adding a valuation element will direct investment towards the fisheries that provides most benefit to society in the context of the priorities set at the national level At the national level data may include yields catches threats and measures that can be used to estimate future adaptive capacity For global level analysis an index approach will be necessary relying on big data Any information system should be useful to serve first and foremost the countries that collect analyse and provide the data Reports to FAO that could be compiled into a global picture of the state of inland fisheries would be a value added product of this process The national reports would also have utility in reporting on progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals Aichi Targets
