British colonies, protectorates, and possessions in Africa Sir Edward Hertslet, 1909 Antarctic Krill and Interactions in the East Antarctic Ecosystem So Kawaguchi, Sophie Bestley, Martin Cox, Kerrie M. Swadling, Elanor Bell, 2025-08-19 Antarctic krill Euphausia superba is the target of the largest commercial fishery in the Southern Ocean Its abundance varies regionally and exhibits great interannual variability This natural variability combined with climate change effects could have substantial consequent impacts on krill predators and the magnitude of ecologically sustainable fishery catch limits Recent increase in the krill catch is due to technological developments in both harvesting and catch processing methods as well as interest in new products derived from krill e.g dietary supplements and pet food The krill fishery is managed by the Commission for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources CCAMLR The krill fishery first commenced in 1970 s off East Antarctica but the main fishing ground shifted to the South Atlantic sector from the 1990 s Interest to fish off East Antarctica has been expressed by CCAMLR Member nations in recent years and the krill fishery recommenced in Indian Ocean sector of East Antarctic sector in the 2016 17 fishing season Given the increase in recent commercial interest the trigger level total allowed catch in one of the management areas CCAMLR Subarea 48 1 has been reached seven times in the Southwest Atlantic the East Antarctic fishery is likely to expand in coming years CCAMLR employs an ecosystem based management approach This requires a wide range of data and information from across regional ecosystem components In the southwest Atlantic sector krill management is based on large scale krill biomass surveys undertaken in 2000 and 2019 together with various national Antarctic programs conducting annual regional scale monitoring this provides assessments of year to year variation of krill ecosystem parameters for CCAMLR to ensure harvesting is carried out in a sustainable manner Contrary to the relatively data rich Southwest Atlantic sector current precautionary catch limits for the krill fishery off East Antarctica are solely based on information collected through the two large scale multidisciplinary surveys conducted by Australia in Divisions 58 4 1 in 1996 and 58 4 2 in 2006 This Research Topic gathers up to date scientific analysis on the East Antarctic ecosystem arising from recent marine science voyages such as ENRICH Euphausiids and Nutrient Recycling In Cetacean Hotspots in 2019 and TEMPO Trends in Euphausiids off Mawson Predators and Oceanography in 2021 Our topic provides an opportunity to explore ecosystem wide scientific studies including non exclusively krill biomass ecosystem structure and interactions between krill krill predators oceanography and primary production to inform sustainable krill fishery management in the region

A Dual Approach to Ocean Governance Mr Yoshifumi Tanaka, 2013-02-28 Taking the North East Atlantic Ocean as an example of regional practice this book addresses the dual approach to ocean governance in international law It examines the interaction between zonal and integrated management approaches and the conservation of marine living resources and marine biological diversity The study examines the limitations of the traditional zonal approach and suggests new possibilities for conformity between sovereign states international law and sustainable development

Environment and Politics Timothy Doyle, Doug McEachern, Sherilyn MacGregor, 2015-08-27 Environment and Politics 4th Edition is a concise introduction to this ever expanding interdisciplinary field explaining and illustrating how concepts conflicts movements political systems and the practices of policy making can be analysed in a systematic way This book provides a comprehensive overview of the key themes that shape the field and examines a diverse range of environmental problems and policy solutions found in different countries and cultures The new edition has been extensively revised to include up to date explanation of green political theories and traditions and the debates that shape action on the ground It contains an expanded discussion of environmental movements that work in the Global North the Global South and transnationally Greater attention has been given to the roles of corporations non governmental organizations the media consumers and citizens in order to reflect the changing nature of environmental governance The text also focuses throughout on debates surrounding the concepts of environmental security environmental justice and environmental citizenship The authors examine the institutional responses of parliaments administrative legal and electoral systems the more informal politics of social movements and the politics of markets and the corporate sector as they respond to or resist the greening of societies This engaging text has been fully updated to offer readers a greater understanding of international national and local environmental politics as well as expected future developments at all levels Environment and Politics continues to use illustrative examples of conflicts people and events spanning North and South America Europe Asia Africa and Australia giving it global perspective and relevance Each chapter includes questions for debate as well as a list of key words and resources for independent research This successful textbook remains a key resource for undergraduate and postgraduate studies across politics environmental studies development studies and human geography courses
