1. The general sense receptors found in the skin are (1) free nerve endings—unencapsulated specialized receptors in skin that respond to pain, touch, and possibly temperature; (2) Meissner's corpuscles—sensory receptors located in the skin close to the surface that detect light touch and vibration; (3) Ruffini's corpuscles—encapsulated sensory nerve endings found in the subcutaneous tissue of fingers and dermis of the skin that detect touch and pressure; (4) pacinian corpuscles—receptors found deep in the dermis and subcutaneous tissue that detect pressure and vibration; (5) Krause's end-bulbs—receptors found in the dermis and subcutaneous tissue that detect touch, low-frequency vibration, and possibly temperature.
2. (1) Golgi tendon receptors—found near junction of tendons and muscles; able to recognize body position. (2) Muscle spindles—found in skeletal muscle; able to detect position and movement.
3. As the fibers of the iris contract, the pupils dilate, letting in more light. Other fibers are circular. When they contract, the pupils constrict, letting in fewer light rays. Normally the pupils constrict in bright light and dilate in dim light.
4. When we look at an object from a distance, the ciliary muscle is in a relaxed state. The lens has only a slightly curved shape. When we focus on near objects, the ciliary muscle contracts, pulling the choroid coat forward toward the lens, thereby causing the lens to bulge and curve even more.
5. Presbyopia is farsightedness, a common condition that occurs as we age. It is the inability to focus on close objects because our lenses have lost their elasticity and can no longer bulge enough to bring near objects into focus.
6. The retina contains microscopic receptor cells called rods and cones. The rods are receptors for night vision and can be stimulated by dim light. Cones are receptors for daytime vision and need bright light to be stimulated.
7. Glaucoma is a disorder characterized by elevated pressure in the eye. When drainage of aqueous humor in the anterior chamber of the eye is blocked, pressure increases, resulting in damage that could lead to blindness.
8. Cataract formation may occur in one or both eyes. It is a condition in which the lens of the eye becomes hard and loses transparency, taking on a milky appearance. In some individual's exposure to ultraviolet radiation in sunlight may cause cataracts to form. The condition tends to be progressive and may result in blindness. Cataracts can be removed surgically and a defective lens can be replaced.
9. The inner most layer of the retina contains the rods and cones, which are the photoreceptor cells of the eye. The fovea centralis is a small depression in the retina which contains the greatest concentration of cones of any area of the retina. Greatest visual acuity, or sharpness of visual perception, can be obtained if we look directly at an object and focus the image on the fovea. No rods or cones are present in the area of the retina where the optic nerve fibers exit the eye. The point of exit known as the optic disc, is therefore called the blind spot.
10. The external ear is composed of two parts: (1) the auricle is the appendage on the side of the head surrounding the opening of the external auditory canal; (2) the external acoustic canal is a curved tube that extends into the temporal bone and ends at the tympanic membrane.
