The 15th International Conference on Biomedical Engineering James Goh, 2013-11-18 This volume presents the processing of the 15th ICMBE held from 4th to 7th December 2013 Singapore Biomedical engineering is applied in most aspects of our healthcare ecosystem From electronic health records to diagnostic tools to therapeutic rehabilitative and regenerative treatments the work of biomedical engineers is evident Biomedical engineers work at the intersection of engineering life sciences and healthcare The engineers would use principles from applied science including mechanical electrical chemical and computer engineering together with physical sciences including physics chemistry and mathematics to apply them to biology and medicine Applying such concepts to the human body is very much the same concepts that go into building and programming a machine The goal is to better understand replace or fix a target system to ultimately improve the quality of healthcare With this understanding the conference proceedings offer a single platform for individuals and organizations working in the biomedical engineering related field to gather and network with each other in so doing create the catalyst for future development of biomedical engineering in Asia

Papers on Syntax Z. Harris, 2012-12-06 The selection of papers reprinted here traces the development of syntax from structural linguistics through transformational linguistics to operator grammar These three are not opposing views or independent assumptions about language Rather they are successive stages of investigation into the word combinations which constitute the sentences of a language in contrast to those which do not Throughout the goal has been to find the systematicities of these combinations and then to obtain each sentence in a uniform way from its parts In structural analysis the parts were words simple or complex belonging to particular classes or particular sequences of these In transformational analysis it is found that the parts of a sentence are elementary sentences whose parts in turn are simple words of particular classes The relation between these two analyses is seen in the existence of an intermediate stage between the two presented in paper 4 From Morpheme to Utterance A further intermediate stage is presented in the writer's String Analysis of Sentence Structure Papers on Formal Linguistics I Mouton The Hague 1962 though it was developed after transformations as a syntactic representation for computational analysis Generalization of both of these analyses leads to operator grammar in which each sentence is derived in a uniform way as a partial ordering of the originally simple words which enter into it Each step least upper bound of the partial ordering of a word requiring another forms a sentence which is a component of the sentence being analyzed
