of this group On the one hand its members are projected to become ideal citizens via the cultivation of citizenship capacities On the other the right to live independently and by their own choices is curtailed as soon as they are seen as failing with respect to the ideals of reason and rationality Therefore coercion restraints and paternalism which were all supposed to end with deinstitutionalisation are still ingrained in services targeting the group In equal parts a theoretical work advancing debates of critical disability theory social theory and post structural philosophy as well as an empirical engagement with the history of intellectual disability politics and the ways in which present day politics target the group this book will be of interest to all students and scholars of disability studies disability politics and political theory
