Tales of Research Misconduct Hub Zwart, 2017-09-14 This monograph contributes to the scientific misconduct debate from an oblique perspective by analysing seven novels devoted to this issue namely Arrowsmith by Sinclair Lewis 1925 The affair by C P Snow 1960 Cantor's Dilemma by Carl Djerassi 1989 Perlmann's Silence by Pascal Mercier 1995 Intuition by Allegra Goodman 2006 Solar by Ian McEwan 2010 and Derailment by Diederik Stapel 2012 Scientific misconduct i.e fabrication falsification plagiarism but also other questionable research practices have become a focus of concern for academic communities worldwide but also for managers funders and publishers of research The aforementioned novels offer intriguing windows into integrity challenges emerging in contemporary research practices They are analysed from a continental philosophical perspective providing a stage where various voices positions and modes of discourse are mutually exposed to one another so that they critically address and question one another They force us to start from the admission that we do not really know what misconduct is Subsequently by providing case histories of misconduct they address integrity challenges not only in terms of individual deviance but also in terms of systemic crisis due to current transformations in the ways in which knowledge is produced Rather than functioning as moral vignettes the author argues that misconduct novels challenge us to reconsider some of the basic conceptual building blocks of integrity discourse Except where otherwise noted this book is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License To view a copy of this license visit <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/> Federal Register, 2013-12 Analysis of Results from the Environmental

The contributors believe that a systematic focus on success will lead to increased awareness of evaluation and its findings, a more positive attitude, and a greater chance of actual evaluation use. This book offers many different lessons on how to improve evaluation, design, research processes, and reporting. It is a realistic look at performance management, the evidence movement, and the demand barriers that so often block the role evaluators can play in organizational learning and decision making. International case studies and lessons are included that both explain success-oriented methods and share insightful lessons from the real world. Together they present a convincing case that evaluation for success allows for increased constructive interaction amongst both stakeholders and evaluators and as a result, learning processes and outcomes will improve.

Embracing the Messy Complexities of Co-Creation Louise Phillips, 2024-12-30 Co-creation in participatory qualitative research has become commonplace. It supports a myriad of collaborative practices from service user involvement in health and social care to community capacity building to bottom-up climate change projects. With its democratic ambitions, transformative power, and in some contexts, goals of social justice, co-creation has much to offer, particularly in these challenging times, but it is also complex and full of tensions. This book offers an approach which recognises and embraces the messy complexities of co-creation. The approach is constructive; it revolves around creating openings for multiple voices and, in particular, the voices of people with lived experience. And it is critical: it involves integrating critical reflexive analyses of the intrinsic tensions in co-creation into the practice of research. The book brings participatory research into dialogue with poststructuralist, social constructionist, and new materialist/posthumanist strands of qualitative inquiry. In an engaging and accessible way, the author weaves together personal storytelling and more detached analysis to illustrate her approach to producing and communicating knowledge as intertwined processes The book is written for all students and researchers with an interest in collaborative research practice
