

Chapter 12: The Cell Cycle

12.1 Explain how mitosis results in genetically identical cells, using the terms chromosome, chromatid, and chromatin.

12.2 Describe the events of interphase and the M phase.

12.3 Identify three checkpoints that control the cell cycle and explain how they operate.

This chapter will be essential to your understanding of how heritable information is passed unchanged from one cell to its descendants and provides for the continuity of life. Multicellular organisms grow and cells are renewed in this process of cell division.

Study Tip: Figure 12.1 in your text summarizes how one cell passes on its genetic information to identical daughter cells in three distinct phases called the cell cycle. As you work through this chapter, you will add details to each process. Summarize each phase.

Interphase the cell grows; in preparation for cell division, the chromosomes are duplicated, with the DNA copied precisely

Mitosis the chromosomes copies are separated from each other and moved to opposite ends of the cell

Cytokinesis the cell divides into two daughter cells, genetically identical to each other and to the parent cell

Concept 12.1 Most cell division results in genetically identical daughter cells

LO 12.1: Explain how mitosis results in genetically identical cells, using the terms chromosome, chromatid, and chromatin.

1. What are the three key roles of cell division? Refer to Figure 12.2 in your text. State each function and give an example.

Function	Example
Asexual reproduction	amoeba, single celled euk. divides into two cells
growth and development	sand dollar embryo after fertilized egg divides into two cells
tissue renewal	dividing bone marrow produced RBC's
