young adolescent students aged 10-15. Addressing the importance of arts learning for young adolescents and aligned with discourse in middle level education, this volume provides a much needed resource for stakeholders interested in the future of arts education for young adolescents. Exploring arts and arts integrated learning through perspectives of creative writing, dance, media arts, music, theater, and visual arts, the book draws on theoretical and empirical research in arts learning contexts in Australia, Canada, Denmark, the United Kingdom, the United States, and the Virgin Islands. This book advocates for middle level arts learning that cultivates and encourages young adolescents' dispositions toward lifelong engagement in the arts and the cultivation of arts learning spaces that value young adolescents' multifaceted identities and motivate students to learn through autonomy, relatedness, and competence. The international authors come from a wide range of disciplinary communities and draw upon scholarship in arts education, culturally responsive pedagogy, self-determination, and motivation theory and adolescent development to construct their arguments and contextualize their research. Resources in

Studio Thinking from the Start Jillian Hogan, Lois Hetland, Diane B. Jaquith, Ellen Winner, 2018. Students of all ages can learn to think like artists. Studio Thinking: The Real Benefits of Visual Arts Education changed the conversation about quality arts education. Now this new publication shows how the eight Studio Habits of Mind and four Studio Structures can be used successfully with younger students in a range of school environments. The book includes classroom examples, visual artist exemplars, templates for talking about works of art, mini posters, and more. If we want our students to think, if we want them to learn, we must engage them in habits of the mind that cultivate their innate abilities. From the Foreword by David P. Nelson, president, MassArt. Studio Thinking from the Start is a needed addition to teacher resources for improving the quality of elementary art education. Olivia Gude, School of the Art Institute of Chicago. Starting young with studio thinking is a fabulous idea supported by this fine resource. After all, studio thinking thrives on art but applies to everything. Pacesetters in Innovation United States. Office of Education, 1968. Information on Projects to Advance Creativity in Education in the form of a compilation of planning and operational grants. Pacesetters in Innovation, 1966 Visual Arts Research, 2000

Greenopia New York City, 2008-04-21. With over 1,000 listings of green retailers, service providers, and organizations throughout the five boroughs of New York City, this guide is an indispensable reference for eco-friendly shopping. It also offers practical advice and environmental tips that can be easily used at home. Listings range from organic restaurants and grocery stores to dry cleaners, organic pest control services, and sustainable building suppliers such as landscapers and interior designers. All listings are vetted by a research team and then rescreened by local expert advisers, providing shoppers with confident, reliable choices. Some listings are further recognized with a green leaf award, which gauges green businesses on a scale of one to four leaves, four being the greenest. This guide is a truly complete resource for green living.

Education, Training and Employment, 1994      Inside Jamaican Schools Hyacinth L. Evans, 2001

Students and teachers of education in the Caribbean have long relied on ethnographic research from North America to enrich their understanding of life in schools and classrooms. Based on actual experiences from the perspectives of both students and teachers, this collection of ethnographic research articles provides the first up-close view of Jamaican schools and classrooms. Hyacinth Evans and her research team used careful, well-executed interviews and participant observation methods. The result is an insightful view of the ways society's tensions are played out in educational settings, the ways personalities are shaped and identities formed in face-to-face interactions, and the ways circumstances and experiences in the Jamaican setting affect teaching and learning. The articles examine Student-teacher interaction, Teacher authority (how it is maintained, nurtured, or eroded), The social construction of student interest and attention versus disruptiveness and apathy, Consequences of streaming children in perceived ability groups, Standard Jamaican English (SJE) methods and their effectiveness in teaching Creole-speaking students.
