9-5 Functions and Their Inverses

Not all relations are functions and not all relations have inverse functions. To decide whether the inverse of a relation is a function, use the horizontal-line test.

If any horizontal line passes through more than one point on the graph of a relation, the inverse of the relation is not a function.

Can you draw a horizontal line that passes through more than one point on the graph?

No. So the inverse of the relation is a function.

Can you draw a horizontal line that passes through more than one point on the graph?

Yes. So the inverse of the relation is NOT a function.

Use the horizontal-line test to determine whether the inverse of each relation is a function.
